

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

The following are extracts from a Preface prepared by the Editor of the Province Laws, Mr. ABNER C. GOODELL, Jr., and are here published by the order and authority of the Governor (acting) and Council:—

"By chapter 43 of the resolves of the year 1865 commissioners were appointed 'to prepare for publication a complete copy of the statutes and laws of the Province and State of Massachusetts Bay, from the time of the province charter to the adoption of the Constitution of the Commonwealth, including all the sessions acts, private and public, general and special, temporary and perpetual, passed from time to time by the General Court; all incorporations of towns and parishes, and all other legislative acts of legal or historical importance appearing on the records of the General Court, with suitable marginal references to the statutes and judicial decisions of the Province and Commonwealth, the orders of the king in council, and to such other authorities as, in their opinion, may enhance the value and usefulness of the work; and to append to the same a complete index.' This work was finished before the end of the next year.

"The resolve did not provide for printing the materials thus collected; but two years later, by the resolve of 1867, chap. 87, authority was given for the printing of one volume during that year, and a new commission was thereupon issued, under which the Commissioners began their work in March, 1868, finishing the first volume in March, 1869.

"The work has since continued to the ninth volume, which is partly done.

"Practically, this ninth volume is the tenth, since the entire first edition of volume II. was destroyed in the great fire of November, 1872, and the work had to be done over again and a new index made.

number 1722 to June 1742, no private acts were passed

"Another instruction, issued first to Governor Burges, September 8, 1715, required the governor to take care that no private act be passed in which there was not a saving to the king and his successors, 'all Bodys politick and corporate and of all other persons except such as are mentioned in the said Act.' This instruction, likewise, was renewed to succeeding governors, but it was clearly not regarded, nor was the neglect to observe it animadverted upon by the Lords of Trade or the Privy Council until the first private act passed after the above instruction to Governor Shute was laid before the latter board for their consideration. This was act number 80; and upon representation of the Lords of Trade of the failure, in this instance, to comply with the above-mentioned instructions, the act was disallowed by the Privy Council, May 28, 1746. In like manner private acts numbers 87, 88, 90, 94 and 97 were disallowed for want of the suspending clause, although other reasons were given; such as, that numbers 90 and 97 were contrary to law, and that in number 94 the legislature unwarrantably assumed the functions of a court of equity.

"Act number 89 was certified for transmission, June 18, 1761; delivered to the clerk of the Privy Council, in waiting, on the nineteenth of September; referred to the committee of the Privy Council, for plantation affairs, on the twenty-fourth; considered by them and referred to the Lords of Trade, etc., on the twenty-fifth; ordered to be sent to Sir Matthew Lamb, counsel for the Board, for his opinion in point of law, January 13, 1762, who, on the twenty-second of May, reported 'no objection;' and, thereupon, on the ninth of June, the act was 'ordered to lie.' No subsequent action upon it has been discovered, and therefore, presumably, it took effect by lapse of time.

"Acts numbers 91, 92, 93, 95, 96, 98, 99 and 100 were all laid before the Privy Council, but neither appears to have been formally allowed or disallowed. The first three were certified for transmission, March 30, 1763; referred to the Commissioners for Trade and Plantations on the ninth of July; read by the Board on the fifteenth, when they were sent, in regular course, to Sir Matthew Lamb, whose report thereon, dated the twenty-second of September, was read and considered on the fourteenth of October. Both in this report and in the list of acts considered on that occasion these private acts were omitted. Much the same course was undoubtedly taken with the other private acts last enumerated, and they were probably not further acted upon.

"The province law of 1754-55, chapter 15, for enforcing the decrees and orders of the Governor and Council in matrimonial cases, had been passed January 8, 1755, but that board continued to decline to decree a dissolution of the bonds of matrimony in cases of cruelty or of adultery. Accordingly, in the second session of the legislature which enacted private act, number 86, for dissolving the marriage of Daniel and Mary McCarthy, a bill was passed in the House empowering the Governor and Council to grant a license to marry again to the 'innocent or aggrieved party,' who had been separated by a divorce a mensâ et thoro. This bill was read in the Council, August 24, 1757, but there was no vote of concurrence. This, of course, was while the provincial divorce-acts of the preceding two years were lying before the Lords of Trade for their consideration.

"The subject of legislative divorces was largely debated about that time, and William Bollan, son-in-law of Governor Shirley, and then agent of the province, in England, a person of various learning, as well as an accomplished lawyer, has left some account of the difficulties he encountered in his diligent and arduous pursuit of this subject, in the libraries and in the records of the ecclesiastical courts in London.

"The Editor has reserved his comments upon the subject of legislative resolves for this conclusion of the preface. However slight the distinction between a bill and a resolve may be according to present practice, — a distinction hardly definable if we follow the received authorities,* — it appears from what has been already shown in this preface that by the province charter, the impress of the province seal, which was affixed to acts exclusively, was a necessary badge of authority, and hence the propriety of limiting the office of resolves, generally, to administrative matters, in which they served to express the consent of the legislature, rather than to prescribe or command action. A large number of resolves are merely subsidiary to other formal legislation, or ancillary to the proceedings of the judicial courts. Of the former, are resolves for the imprinting and issuing of bills of public credit; for abating taxes and imposts; for granting salaries; votes for supplying the treasury; and appropriations for a variety of objects sanctioned by law. Of the latter, are resolves for altering the terms of the courts; aiding in the settlement and distribution of estates; and ordering sales of the estates of deceased persons or persons under disability; granting es of failure to enter appeals and reviews, or for correcting in the service of writs, and in the levy of executions, powers of the judiciary were inadequate.

higher class of resolves are those declaratory of the law; treaties; issuing proclamations for fasts and thanksgivings; and preparing letters to other governments; adopting the crown; defining the functions of the respective branches of legislature, and settling questions of parliamentary law and Administrative resolves comprise a great variety; such as organizing the building of highways, bridges, and ferries, meeting- and schoolhouses, forts and blockhouses; establishing the of the province, and of towns and counties; electing public providing arms and munitions of war, and furnishing snow- militia.

resolves most difficult to trace in their operation are those passed in aid of military forces in actual service. The commander-in-chief, having the disposal of all grants for , and not being accountable except through the commissars of war appointed by him, it is sometimes impossible whether a given resolve of this class was actually operated upon by the House, or of approval of a military enterprise taken as sufficient warrant for the application of money by the Governor and Council, without the record of the committee of the upper branch. A similar difficulty arises in determin-

"Hence it happens that not less than one hundred and thirty-seven towns in Massachusetts have no other foundation than grants by the general court, in the form of votes, orders or resolves which were not included with the printed acts. Undoubtedly, this clause in the charter was inserted to cure beyond dispute or challenge the alleged defects of title which had been availed of by Andros to reap a harvest of heavy fees for confirming grants which, he claimed, should have been regularly made by deed, under the corporate seal, and not by vote of the legislature.

"Divers attempts were made from time to time to prevent or discourage applications to the legislature for private relief. Thus, in 1720, a resolve * passed the Council for fixing a limit of twelve months for the presentation of petitions for leave to enter appeals from the judgment of the Superior Court; but the House refused to concur. Again, in 1736, an act † was passed for awarding costs to respondents in the case of vexatious petitions, and limiting the time for the presentation of all private petitions to fourteen days from the beginning of the session.

"The resolves in this edition embrace all joint or concurrent proceedings of the three branches of the legislature, except merely interlocutory or parliamentary votes and orders; such as those for passing bills through their several stages; for appointment of commissioners, and of temporary legislative committees, and for the election of councillors and other public officers; and messages between the several branches of the legislature, and commissions and instructions to agents and the guardians of Indians, etc.

"As a rule, when a vote of the House recommending or contemplating executive action was acted upon by the Council, the vote has been included, as a complete act of legislation, although no formal vote of concurrence may have been found; but in other cases, where, upon the passage of such vote by the House, the Council has taken independent action, not professedly in compliance with the vote of the House, the proceeding has been treated as the executive act of the Governor and Council; thus, where, in the case of Maule's objectionable book 'Truth Held Forth and Maintained,' the House prayed 'that the premises may be inquired into, and some suitable testimony be be 'signified and declared in Writeing' in all cases. A larger number of the resolves appear without his signature, but only in continuation of the practice under the colonial government. At the time of Andros's administration the Governor directed legislation, and the House assisted. A departure from this practice, where bills originated in the House, occurred in and sent back, the governor's signature was in the secretary's record, or in the council minute-book; but this practice became established—at least as far as the Editor intended—to regard the secretary's entry of the resolve as conclusive.

In preparing for the press this edition of resolves, I have read, whenever practicable, to the original draught. Where a resolve prefixed by the secretary has also been prefixed by the House, it contained the substance of the petition or representation on which the resolve was based, and which could not be found in the original. Resolves are marked as 'passed' where they have been passed by both branches, but where the governor's signature is not present, appear save by inference,—the fact that the resolve was passed being shown by extrinsic evidence. Where the Governor's assent or approbation appears by his written signature, or in the secretary's books, or is minuted in the House, the resolve is marked 'approved;' and in all cases the fact of approval is given as accurately as possible. Not infrequently, a difference will be noticed between the resolve in the archives and the secretary's record, there compilation into its component parts, thus making two or more resolves in place thereof.

"From the beginning of their work the Commissioners agreed that a grouping according to the localities referred to, of all votes of the general court granting lands, establishing precincts and parishes, and determining territorial boundaries, would be more convenient for the public than printing the same in chronological order by which they would be dispersed throughout the entire series of volumes. They therefore adopted the plan, hitherto followed, of printing the titles of these several resolves in their chronological sequence, postponing the full text of the resolves to a separate volume in which it was the intention to bring together all such resolves as are mutually related, so that the reader will have before him a full history of the legislation respecting each grant of territory, each town and precinct, and of every contest respecting boundaries."

AN ACT ENABLING JOHN BURNABY OF BOSTON MERCHANT TO HAVE A TRYAL OF HIS APPEAL FROM THE JUDGEMENT OF PENN TOWNSEND ESQ^r ONE OF HIS MAJ^{ties} JUSTICES OF THE PEACE, AT THE NEXT COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS OF THE PEACE TO BE HOLDEN AT BOSTON FOR THE COUNTY OF SUFFOLKE.

WHEREAS John Burnaby of Boston in the Province afores^d Merchant, by his humble petition hath set forth, That at the prosecution of Samuel Lillie of s^d Boston Merchant, he was convented on the twenty eighth day of December last past before Penn Townsend Esq^r one of his Majesties Justices of the peace, for saying unto said Lillie in the s^d Burnabys own Warehouse, That the said Lillie told a notorious Lie, and he would prove it; being exasperated to express himselfe in such words by abusive discourse he then received from the said Lillie: And that the said Justice Townsend, by his Judgement given upon the s^d prosecution, having declared the s^d John Burnaby convicted of making or publishing a Lie to the defamation of the s^d Samuel Lillie, and fined the s^d Burnaby for the same, he appealed from the s^d Judgement to the (then) next Court of General Sessions of the peace to be holden at Boston afores^d for the County of Suffolke, but through mistake directed his Reasons of Appeal to the next Inferiour Court of Judicature, by means of which mis-direction the Court rejected his Reasons of Appeal, so that thereby, to his unspeakable grief, he lost the benefit of the Law: And hath therefore prayed That, inasmuch as the cause of his prosecution as afores^d being only frivolous and no ways injurious to the prosecutor, but a great disrepute and scandal to him the s^d petitioner to have the afores^d Record of the s^d Justice Townsend remain against him, he might have remedy by some Act of this Court, enabling him to file new Reasons of Appeal in the premisses, and to have the same heard.

Be it therefore Enacted by the Lieutenant Governour, Council and Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the

AN ACT TO ENABLE THE SURVIVING EXECUTORS OF EDWARD JACKSON GENTLEMAN DECEASED TO DISPOSE OF PART OF HIS REAL ESTATE IN SHUTESBURY IN THE COUNTY OF HAMPSHIRE.

WHEREAS Daniel Marsh, Samuel Sewall, and Thomas Cushing surviving Executors of the last Will and Testament of Edward Jackson late of Boston deceased have by their Petition to this Court set forth that the said Edward in his Will ordered all his Real Estate to be sold except his Lands in Road Town, and that he had some Years before his Death purchased about twenty five hundred Acres of Land in said Road Town now called Shutesbury in the County of Hampshire, and had afterwards taken a Mortgage of about five Thousand Acres more which lay in common and undivided with said purchase, that his Executors since his Death having been obliged to sue out said Mortgage, hold the Land in common and undivided with the said purchased Land, which they are restrained from selling as above, whereby the circumstances of the Estate necessitating them to sell or convey to others Part of the said Lands, and there being no way to divide, they are put to great difficulty: And that the Term of three Years only, from the first of July 1761, being allowed to compleat the Terms of the Original Grant by an Act of the General Court, the said Lands may be exposed to a Forfeiture, as it is not likely the required Duty can be done within the Time yet remaining of said Term, which circumstance will impede the Sale of any Part of the Land, and retard any advances to the settlement of the rest, notwithstanding they Cost their Testator a large sum of Money, and considerable sums had been paid by him in his life time as well as by his Executors since his Death, in Taxes and otherwise. But that as the Executors have got over some Incumbrances which have heretofore delayed the settlement of these Lands the above Embarrassments being also removed, they doubted not the Duty on said Lands would be immediately forwarded, and as soon as possible compleated, therefore the said Executors prayed that this Court would enable and empower them so far in the discharge of their Trust as to sell and convey any Part or Parts, Lot or Lots of said Land in as legal and authentic a manner as if the said part or parts Lot or Lots by them Conveyed were parcel of the said Mortgaged Lands legally divided from the Original Purchase aforesaid and held in severalty. Provided nevertheless that there be reserved out of the whole Tract of seven thousand five hundred Acres aforesaid such and so much Land as shall be equivalent in quantity and Quality to the twenty five hundred Acres purchased by the Testator as aforesaid, to remain unsold and to be disposed according to his said Will. And Whereas all Parties interested in the premisses have Signified their desire and consent that the Prayer of the said Executors may be granted in manner aforesaid.
